The Edmonton Numismatic Society

The Edmonton Numismatic Society (ENS) dates back to September 1953. At that time the members met and discussed the hobby under the name, the Edmonton Coin Club. During the 1960's, 70's, and 80's the Club sponsored 20 Annual Coin-A-Rama shows, issuing many collectible souvenirs.

In 1979, The City of Edmonton's 75th Anniversary, the Club was host to its first CNA Convention. A number of mini shows and Anniversary shows were held during the 1980's and 90's.

As a reflection of the varied collecting interest of the current membership, and a continuing commitment to promote the hobby, the Club changed its name to the Edmonton Numismatic Society just prior to hosting its second CNA Convention in 1998. Since 1996 the Club has sponsored two shows each year, one in the late winter/early spring and one in the fall.

Message from the President

I'd like to thank everyone for giving me the opportunity to be president of the best coin club in Canada! Most of you know me from working with Ray at National Pride Coin & Stamp from 1987 to 1995. I have been active in coin & banknote collecting since 1977.

We have been fortunate the last few years to have a healthy economy in Alberta, which does reflect in and drive the coin market. Participation by dealers, collectors, and volunteers at our club hosted Money show are second to no other club hosted show in Canada, and that's quite an achievement. We also have been fortunate to have an excellent show chairman in Mike Schneider. Without his efforts, I doubt the show would be where it's at today.

Attendance at our monthly ENS meeting is consistently strong as well. In fact, it was pointed out that more members attend our impromptu 'social' nights than most clubs get at a regular meeting. No doubt our clubs' strength has been greatly due to the hard work and modern thinking of Mr. Dan Gosling, our president for the last five years. On behalf of the entire membership I would like to thank Dan for doing such a dedicated and enthusiastic job. His shoes will be hard to fill.

As we head into the last half of this decade, it's hard to predict what the economy will hold, with most people having less expendable income due to rising prices of everything. The coin market has seemingly gone unfazed by the recent gas hike, for example, and still resembles a 'bull' market, setting record prices at auctions. In numismatics, people will always find something to passion over within their particular economic situation.

The ENS has been earmarked to host the 2008 CNA convention, which will be something to plan towards. Our last CNA in 1998 was a huge success, but is as challenging to organize as it is exciting. Those of you from Dans' executive who organized will no doubt be called upon again. If you'll notice, the executive & directors roster has changed quite dramatically this year. Some have served 15 years prior with the same duties, many thanks to them.

Our new executive is made up of some new faces, some old, and some new ideas. The club isn't 'broken' so there's no need to fix anything, but keeping up with the times and diversified guest speakers is what has made us number one. The new executive with our finger on the pulse will strive to keep us there. Hope to see you all out to the next meeting!

Jamie Horkulak

EDMONTON COIN CLUB A NEW AFFILIATE

We are happy to announce the formation of a coin club in Edmonton, which has affiliated with the Association. The officers are: President: Professor J. E. Moore Vice-President: Dr. R. F. Nicholls Secretary-Treasurer: Geo. V. Carter

THE EDMONTON COIN CLUB

Mr. Geo. V. Carter, the Secretary-Treasurer of this newly formed Club, informs us that although they are a new group, they are working very hard to make a worth-while organization. This is evidenced by the fact of their having sent in a résumé of the talk given them by one of their members, Mr. L. English. Mr. English spoke about the Canadian 5¢ pieces. By referring to information gleaned from past and recent issues of the Bulletin and other publications he gave a very good account of this series of coins. Mr. English began with a description of the Province of Canada issue of 1858, gave the history of Confederation, and then continued with a description of the development of this coin denomination right up to the present Elizabethan one. He not only dwelt briefly on the wreath varieties, mint marks, and rarities in the silver coinage, but also described its nickel, tombac, and steel-chromium-plated types. The 1925 rarity, the 1926 variety, and the 1951 commemorative coins were also mentioned. All in all, this talk must have been well worth while hearing, and we are grateful to the Edmonton Coin Club for telling us about it.

Minutes, ENS General Meeting, Jan.11 2006

Call to order: 7:31 pm, with President Jamie Horkulak presiding, 34 members in attendance.

No new business was discussed. Program Director Pierre Driessen welcomed everyone to a new year and a new executive of the ENS. He then gave the main presentation of the evening, on the topic of the new Euro currency of Europe. Pierre did a wonderful job of explaining the history behind the Euro, its implementation, and its effects on the member-state participants and the world as a whole. His talk was complemented by a slideshow showing the various prototypes of the Euro; - illustrating those designs that were selected and those that were not. Discussion and questions ensued, followed by a short coffee break. Show Chairman Michael Schneider asked that members sell and distribute tickets and flyers for the upcoming Money Show. This was followed by the door prize draw, with 6 members taking home new prizes.

The second presentation of the evening was made by Dan Gosling and Pierre Driessen, was an "Introduction to Canadian Paper Money", on the topic of Canadian Chartered Banknotes, (authored by the CNA) with Dan operating the slide presentation, and Pierre reading the accompanying notes. The membership expressed its appreciation to both Pierre and Dan for a job well done in both presentations, as they were well detailed, informative, entertaining, and accompanied by lots of illustrations. Following the meeting, 15 members continued the fellowship at the Boston Pizza on 124th Street.

ENS EXECUTIVE MEETING – JANUARY 26, 2006

The newly elected ENS Executive and Directors met on Thursday, January 26 to discuss the operations and the financial status for the up-coming year. Thirteen members were present.

Arrangements were made for the out-going and in-coming executive members for the transfer of the financial instruments and authorized signing authority. A financial audit is to be arranged.

Greg Wichman has offered to help conduct an inventory of ENS material assets acquired by purchase or donation; i.e. cases, displays, trophies, library books and AV materials, ENS issued numismatic items – medals, wooden nickels, souvenir bucks, etc. It was learned that Cory Ketchum is moving out of town, having been transferred.

Ron Whitney has offered to assist the Secretary in the role of Membership Chairman.

Terry Cheesman will be the Exhibits Chairman for all up-coming shows.

Dan Gosling will add WebMaster to his role of Librarian and Archivist, maintaining the ENS Web site.

The ENS will continue to support the Kids on Coins program. Requests in writing for financial assistance will be considered as received.

Due to increased costs associated with sponsoring our shows, specifically, room costs, table rentals and security, the executive have adopted a number of cost saving and revenue increasing actions. These include reducing budgeted amounts for door prizes, pre-show refreshments, show brochures, and increasing ticket and admission amounts, dealers' table rates and display cases rental rates.

A discussion about the proposal to apply for the 2009 CNA Convention followed. Confirmation of dates and venue must be secured before a formal application is tendered. A Show Chairman and a Bourse Chairman need to be appointed ASAP.

Directors' Insurance is still be investigated with written quotes required.

Tentative dates and venues for further Executive meetings was discussed.

The meeting adjourned at approximately 9:30 p.m.

Daniel's Coin Zoo

www.coinzoo.net

JF Kennedy

A website has been set up to display coins with animal designs from around the world. In an email conversation, I spoke with the website's creator and Zoo Master, Daniel Clements about the new site.

JFK: Is the coin zoo free?

Zoo Master: The Coin Zoo web site is free for anybody to visit and use.

JFK: Can kids visit the zoo?

Zoo Master: My goal is to make the Coin Zoo very "kid friendly." The information presented – geography, history, and animal information – does not go into too much depth, but there are lots of links if people want more information. I would like to develop the Coin Zoo into a good resource to give kids ideas for school projects. I try to present most of the information in an easy light-hearted way, although that can be difficult with some of the history. I think this is a web site that children will be able to visit while they are in school and learn something. (I am certainly learning a few things putting it together!)

JFK: How did you get into collecting animal coins?

Zoo Master: My main interest is Canadian colonial tokens, but I found myself coming away from some coin shows empty handed so I decided to collect world coins dated 1962 (my birth year) to give me a second goal. One day I was at a local coin shop searching through a treasure chest of coins, looking for pieces for my 1962 set. Lying on top was an Irish half-penny dated 1965 featuring a pig and her piglets. It was beautiful and I was immediately attracted to it, but the date was wrong. This was my first introduction to the wonderful Ireland "barn yard" series, but to my dismay I realized the half-penny was not minted in 1962. I bought the coin anyway. For $2, how could I go wrong? I took it home and showed my wife and told her it was the first coin of my "animal" set. Many months went by, and I was at a coin show in Hamilton. I casually peered into a dealer's bargain bin and spotted this beautiful "gold" coin – a half-sol from Peru – with an animal on it. I had no idea what the animal was, but the dealer told me it was a Vicuña. He explained that its wool was so soft and special it was reserved only for kings. He even wrote the name of the animal down and pointed out the accent over the letter n. All this for a 25¢ coin! That was my second animal coin, and the collection was under way.

JFK: Did you get encouragement to pursue this collection?

Zoo Master: I received encouragement of a general nature from members of the Canadian Coin Reference Site discussion group. An often repeated phrase among the group is "collect what you enjoy, collect what is fun." This collection is definitely fun (and challenging).

JFK: I heard a Peruvian woman talk about the Vicuña on their coin. She said that Llama wool is nice and Alpaca wool is 10 times better, but Vicuña wool is 10 times better than that! Are there other exotic or extinct animals in the coin zoo?

Zoo Master: There will be at least two extinct animals (once I add the coins): The "Falkland Islands Fox" (50 pence) and the "Huia Bird" on the old 6-pence coin from New Zealand. The Huia Bird is an interesting story and unfortunately one that doesn't look good on mankind. That bird was hunted to extinction after its white-tipped black feathers became a fashion craze in the nineteenth century (mostly on women's hats). The last one was seen in 1907. This coin was issued from 1933 to 1965 (first in silver, then copper-nickel), but unfortunately it didn't make it onto the decimal coins. As for "exotic" animals, I guess that depends on where you are from! Many countries have exotic birds, but if you lived there they may not seem so exotic. There are lots of parrots and there's always the "Monkey-eating Eagle" from the Philippines. That sounds pretty exotic to me, but since I have not put that coin online yet, I don't know if it actually eats monkeys.

JFK: Are there mythical animals at the coin zoo?

Zoo Master: Yes, I decided to include mythological animals after I saw the 5 and 10 drachmai coins from Greece with Pegasus on them. Iceland also has some wonderful coins with mythical animals such as the Monster Bird, a "guardian spirit" that is part of the mythos of the country.

JFK: You say your first animal coin had a pig on it; are there more domestic animal coins? I notice wild animals are popular subjects on coins.

Zoo Master: There are a few other domestic animals. The Irish coins also feature a hen and her chicks, as well as a dog (Irish Wolf Hound). There are other dogs, and many horses. Cows also show up on a few coins, including a cow race on the Indonesian 100 rupiah coin. But the majority are wild animals.

JFK: Can you think of a notable or significant animal coin series?

Zoo Master: That's a tough one. I think any series of coins with animals is notable! The series that springs to my mind as both notable and historical is our very own centennial series. The centennial animal series by Alex Colville is loved by Canadian collectors and many others around the world. I find it very satisfying that Canada chose to express itself through animals in this way.

JFK: How are the animal exhibits organized on your website?

Zoo Master: You can select a country, and see all the coins for that country. You could also select an area (e.g., "Europe"), and see all the countries in that area, and how many coins are in the zoo for each country, and then choose a country from there. Or, you can select an animal class (e.g., "Birds") and see all the animals from that class regardless of the country. I also plan to add some "special exhibits" in the future. This will be the spot for non-circulating legal tender coins that I happen to like, such as the Canadian 50¢ whale and birds of prey series. However, these won't appear in the regular lists since that is reserved for circulating issues. Finally, there is a search function that works pretty well. For example, if you searched for "cow" you would find all the cow coins added so far, plus a few other coins such as the Brazilian 100-cruzeiros featuring a manatee (aka "cow of the sea").

JFK: What's your motivation to display the zoo collection as a website?

Zoo Master: After I started this collection, I dreamed up the idea of the Coin Zoo, and spent a lot of time thinking about it. I think every collector has a desire to show their collection to other people, so that is probably the main driving force. The internet is the ultimate vehicle for displaying a coin collection, since it can be viewed by anybody from all over the world. Then there is the desire to create something that other people find interesting, which I think is a natural part of human nature. In the end, I would like to build something that is not just fun and informative, but an actual reference for other collectors. To achieve that, I need to have all the animal coins displayed. Perhaps the site will even encourage some people to take up coin collecting.

JFK: Where do you get animal coins? Are they expensive?

Zoo Master: I have found the majority of the coins at coin shows and from online dealers. A handful were found at coin shops. Of the 590 coins I have so far in my collection, the prices range from five cents to ninety dollars. Out of a current list of 900 pieces, I would say that approximately two-thirds can be found for one dollar or less. Some pieces are expensive, though. The five most expensive pieces still on my want list could total $1,000. The bottom line is that a collector could put together many different topical collections (for example "Birds from Africa") without great expense but with lots of challenge and fun.

JFK: You say you find it satisfying that Canada expressed itself with the Centennial coin series. Why do countries put animals on coins?

Zoo Master: I would like to believe it is due to the recognition that we are intimately connected with our natural surroundings and that preservation is a worthy goal. In the case of the Canadian centennial series, each design reflected certain characteristics or ideals of the people of the country. I can't imagine how that would be achieved through something other than nature (fauna or flora) without alienating somebody somewhere. Everybody can relate to the native species of their country in some form.

JFK: In the whole world, how many new animal coins are created every year?

Zoo Master: That's a good question, and if anybody knows the answer I'd love it if they would contact me! One of my biggest challenges is discovering new issues around the world. Since most countries do not change their circulating coinage too often, the answer is probably none to few new animal coins each year.

JFK: Do you have a favorite animal coin?

Zoo Master: There are so many beautiful and interesting coins that I would find it impossible to pick just one. One day I may put together a few top ten lists – one for mammals, one for birds, and a third for all the rest. For now, I'll name one of my newer acquisitions that I am quite pleased with: the 5-rouble coin from Spitzbergen (KM#14). The design features a whale over the top of the world and it is quite appealing. The other pieces from Spitzbergen are very nice, too. I never saw a single example of any of them after years of looking, and then I found a BU set all at once. That was a happy day!

JFK: How many animals are in the coin zoo now? What's in the future for the zoo?

Zoo Master: There are currently 223 coins on display from 45 countries. I have over 360 more coins in my collection waiting to be added, so I am not even half way there. Then there are over 300 coins I have yet to find, plus the ones I don't even know about yet. This is definitely a long-term project.
